J. E. Warren, of Mayfield, Asks For Circuit Judgeship

Well Known Graves County Attorney Seeks Important Office in First Judicial District.

THE HON. J. E. WARREN

To the Democracy of the First Judicial District:

I am a candidate for Circuit Judge, subject to your action in the primary election to be held on August 1st next. Having made that declaration in the presence of a full realization of what my election would mean, not to me only but to the great citizenship of the five counties composing the district, and then candidly stated your serious consideration of my fitness for the place, and offered you, so far as I am able, the means through which your investigation may be made. I have perhaps done and said about all that is appropriate for with these facts at your command, the responsibility for the action taken devolves upon you, and, having a high regard for your sovereignty and finality, I should and will be content with your verdict.

Since my arrival at the age of twenty-one years, I have been a faithful and earnest adherent to the principles of Democracy and have rendered what ever service I could with time and means. This I have done not through hope of reward or the political preference but because of my abiding conviction that in the accomplishment of these principles lies the greatest possible good to the greatest number. I count it a distinction, indeed, to be numbered among the Democrats of the counties of Ballard, Carlisle, Fulton, Graves and Hickman, constituting the bulk and certainty of the majorities regularly contributed by the Kentucky Gibraltar, which has saved the state from many a defeat.

I believe I understand the duties of the office to which I aspire. I know I appreciate its responsibility. The Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution and Bill of Rights of Kentucky, guarantee certain privileges and rights equally to all. Laws have been enacted to carry those guarantees into effect and to penalize those who do not respect them. But constitutions and laws do not enforce themselves; their enforcement lies exclusively in the courts which have been created for that purpose and which have back of them and to enforce their decrees all the power of the commonwealth. The perpetuity of all our institutions and the welfare of society are inseparably bound up with and dependent upon their administration; and nearly all this responsibility, relatively speaking, devolves upon your Circuit Courts.

Born and reared in Graves County, after graduating from one of the best law schools in the South twenty years ago, I immediately took up the practice of that profession and have diligently and studiously followed it since. During that period of attendance upon courts, I have had occasion to observe many of the weaknesses and short comings of humanity, and the clear distinctions between a well defined criminal intention and the mere technical or needless violation of law, calling for rigor or mercy in administering the penalty within the limits prescribed by statute. My conception of the essential qualifications of a Circuit Judge are a knowledge of the fundamentals of law and its procedure, both civil and criminal; a mind open to conviction and legitimate argument; respect for the personal and property rights of the individual; regard for the frailties of humanity and a conscientious purpose to do right.

If upon investigation you shall find me to possess, in a reasonable degree, the requisites of the place I seek, it will afford me a deep and lasting pleasure to fill it with the consciousness of your sanction and approval. And if elected, it will be my endeavor at all times to administer justice as the facts and not the individuals involved dictate, and without favor or prejudice.

Yours for service,
J. E. WARREN.

HEIR ARRESTED IN MURDER MYSTERY

Son Jailed as Body of Farmer Is Found in River Near Paducah.

After the body of Joe Daniels, 63 years old, wealthy farmer was found in a river near Paducah early Sunday morning, Van Daniels, 35 years old, his son and sole heir was arrested on a charge of murder.

Mystery surrounds the death of the older Daniels and the evidence against his son is purely circumstantial.

The two men were returning to Paducah Saturday night from the country after trying to sell a farm. A title from Paducah the engine of their automobile went "dead," according to the son's statement to the coroner, and he left his father in the car while he went to get assistance.

When he returned, he said, and found his father gone, he supposed he had decided to walk to Paducah, or had caught a ride in another car. Finding a loose wire, which had caused the engine to stop, the young Daniels went to Paducah, he said.

Questioned as to whether he had gone to his father's hotel in Paducah or had made any inquiries to see whether he had arrived, the son admitted he had not, but insisted that he had no suspicions that any harm had befallen him. Daniels' body was found floating in Clark's River, five miles from Paducah. Only slight bruises were found on it. A postmortem examination failed to reveal any trace of water in the lungs and this, together with the fact that the body was floating so soon after it had been in the water, convinced physicians that the farmer first was murdered and then the body thrown into the stream from a bridge.

A circumstance which the authorities regard as damaging to the son is that the river is four miles from the spot where he contends he left his father in the automobile, but the older Daniels had been crippled by rheumatism and could not possibly have walked that far.

Flaws also have been found in the son's statements regarding his visit to several houses for assistance when his car stalled, according to the authorities.

A farmer named Dees, who was negotiating with the Daniels Saturday for purchase of a farm for $25,000, told the coroner that he understood the younger Daniels was $11,000 in debt to his father.

The coroner's jury left its verdict open, pending an analysis of the stomach, which was made Monday on the theory that Daniels was poisoned.

The son was placed in the county jail. The Daniels' home is at Calvert City. The estate is valued from $50,000 to $75,000.

$200 PLEDGED TO HEALTH FUND

Amount Raised Nearing Necessary Mark.

A committee that was appointed to raise the funds for the all time public health work for the western end of the county are very gratified with the results thus far. It now appears that $200 will crown their efforts.

On the night of Easter Sunday, the choir of the First Methodist Church, assisted by members of the choir of St. Paul's Church sang a very beautiful cantata, "The First Easter." The music was exceptionally well rendered and a large attendance that filled the auditorium.

John Johnston introduced the Rev. F. L. Miller, pastor of the Christian Church, who conducted a vigorous campaign for pledges for the health and welfare work. The whole service was a remarkable success and the thanks of the committee is due to the singers and all who participated in the program.

As The Courier goes to press, $1500 has been reported as contributed to this fund. The goal is $2500.00 and must be reached by Saturday. It Fulton County is to participate in the State and Government funds for public health work. The committee asks that any who have not already given to the fund will hand in their pledges as soon as possible.

DEPUTY JOE WALL KILLS NEGRO

Negro Flourished Gun on Officer in Raid on His Mill.

Henry Ewing, known in this part of the country as "Daylight" and "Dangerous Kid," was killed Friday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wall, when officers were attempting to raid his still on the C. T. Bondurant farm, eight miles west of town.

Deck Thomas, a negro alleged to have been one of the henchmen for Ewing's still, had been wounded earlier in the day. Officers recovered his body in his place, a small mill, and all cases of "whiskey" were seized. He was forced to get up and to lead the officers to the still.

Wall, who was shot in the arm, tried to wrench it from the negro's hand. He was not able to do this, and as he found the gun was being loosened from his grasp by the negro, he emptied his gun in him, five shots taking effect in various parts of his body, the negro dying immediately.

Several kegs of mash and some whiskey was found. The still was a home-made affair and had a capacity of about fifteen quarts a day. The entire outfit was brought to town and placed in the yard of the county jail, where it now is.

Excluding trial for Deputy Wall was held before Judge E. J. Stair Monday. He was released upon evidence presented, as having shot the negro in self-defense while resisting arrest.

MANAGER SIGNED FOR HICKMAN BALL CLUB

Alvin Minton, who has been the organizing force of the Hickman baseball club during the season of 1929, has been signed as manager of the team which will play in the season of 1931. According to Minton he will have a bunch of fast players for the debut of the team when the season opens.

The new manager of the team is an old hand at the game, having seen service with the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New Orleans Saints. He was also organized for a time as coach of the Missouri State University baseball team. Last year he played with the Cardinals in the independent circuit. With Hickman he will be a playing manager, probably playing at the keystone sack.

Practicing plans call for a two weeks' training season, the players reporting for practice about April 14 and the season beginning some time near the first of May.

GAIN OF 1,083 IN FULTON COUNTY

All Districts Except One Show Gain Over Former Census.

With a total population of 15,097, Fulton County is shown through the official 1920 census to have gained as a whole 1,083. District 1, including Fulton town, gained 688. District 2, including Cayce and Crossfield, lost 18. District 3, including Hickman, gained 9. District 4, including Sycamore Ridge and Madrid Road, gained 151. The town of Hickman lost 103 in ten years. The town of Fulton gained 800, the same period.

The urban population of Fulton County in 1920 was 6,048, the rural population 9,049. The rural population had increased only 461 in the past twenty years, while the urban had increased 3,188. Thus it will be seen that Fulton County is no exception to the rule that towns have been growing at the expense of the country.

The census bureau defines as urban those living in incorporated towns of 2,500 or more, and all the rest as rural. The proportion of urban population in the whole state increased from 24.3 per cent in 1910 to 26.2 per cent in 1920.

Fulton County has 78.7 persons per square mile, thus comparing favorably in density of population with any of the counties except those having large cities.

COUNTERFEITER CAUGHT.

Meyer Caldwell, the Bragg City drug gist, is in bad. He conceived the idea of having a lot of "bronze" or trade coins with which the A. B. Smith Lumber Co. has been paying off its men at Bragg City for some time made and placing same in circulation along with the genuine made for and circulated by the lumber company in payment for value received. He went to St. Louis and placed an order with a stamping company for a large quantity of the "money," and returned in due time and received and paid for the same, and was to doubt congratulating himself over the value represented by the coins he had secured for such a small outlay, when he was placed under arrest, searched and the coins taken from him as evidence and he was placed in jail.

He overlooked the fact that any reputable company making such a medium of exchange must necessarily for the protection of its customers, have an order duly verified by some accredited representative of the firm for which it is made, and in this instance, as soon as they received the order, they notified the Smith Lumber Co., who advised them that they had not authorized the order, but for them to proceed with it, and keep them advised in order that they might have a representative on hand when it was delivered to place the party who received it under arrest.

Their plan worked to perfection, Meyer was pinched before he got 20 feet away from the door of the stamping company.

No doubt, he doesn't think he is as smart as he thought he was. Dinklin (Mo.) Democrat.

MILBURN FACTORY HAS MOVED TO PADUCAH

The Milburn Implement Company, of Arlington, Ky., where it was organized has moved to Paducah for good, according to a statement coming from the Paducah Board of Trade.

The Milburn Implement Co. makes a new creation in harness which is sold by experts to be the best of its kind on the market. They also manufacture other farm implements.

The company has been located at Arlington for the past year, but owing to the shipping facilities, Paducah was decided upon as a more ideal place.

The original intention of this company was to locate the manufacturing plant at Arlington, and a site for the building was secured there and the material placed on the ground. But on account of improved shipping facilities it was decided to move it to Paducah. It is understood that the plant will employ a great many men and the removal of the enterprise to Paducah will mean quite a loss to Arlington and to Carlisle County. The barrow that will be manufactured was invented and patented by W. Ed Aton, of Milburn.—Carlisle County News.

MUCH TREASURE FOUND IN MISER'S HOME

Search of the "house of mystery" of John Waters, who was found dead late Friday afternoon, revealed a total of $2,000.91. However, relatives are not content and believe that a larger hidden treasure is concealed in the cottage. A thorough search by tearing up the floor and removing the ceiling will be made.

Concealed in a tool chest located in the bedroom, Coroner J. F. Wright and Frank C. Boone, who has been named as administrator, found a box containing nine $10 gold pieces, and stuffed in a tin can were many small envelopes containing wads of bills of various denominations. In the front room was found a small package containing pennies and old gold coins, while in the kitchen a $50 Liberty bond and a $5 war saving stamp were located. The diversity of the hiding places made relatives feel confident that more money and valuables will be found. The money located totaled $1,949.91.

No money was found on deposit to his credit in any of the banks by his administrator. Also all efforts to locate a safety box were unavailing. Neighbors say that frequently Waters had remarked that his house was as safe as a bank. As a precaution against possible search by unauthorized persons, the doors and windows were carefully locked and nailed.

Second in interest to the finding of the money is the disposition of the quantity of whisky and who found in the house. Approximately five gallons in jugs and bottles were removed by W. Kimball, deputy United States marshal, and James W. Clark, federal prohibition agent, to the federal building. Under the prohibition act only the federal officers were authorized to remove the liquor from the residence. How to dispose of the liquor is a puzzling question that will be decided later. One federal judge in the case of a physician decided that liquor authorized to be used for medical purposes did not pass as property upon death.

With the dawn of daylight yesterday the search of the house of Waters was renewed and it proved a veritable "curiosity shop". Nothing that Dickens ever wrote surpassed the description of the variety of articles that were stored away in the three rooms of the cottage. As neighbors grouped in front of the quaint little house of which they knew so little, some of the details of the eccentric life of John Waters, the miser, became known.—Paducah News-Democrat.

Fashion's decree: "Let skirts be short in all its loveliness, grace"

What a responsibility—what exacting demands—Fashion's "Skirts Short!" has placed on shoes.

Always to be smartly shod, with dainty charm, with conspicuous neatness, for any occasion—that is what Fashion's decree means.

The mandate for skirts of brevity and footwear fashions was the all-engrossing topic of conversation as they strolled down the avenue.

"If only," sighed the one, "shop-window shoes existed outside of shop windows."

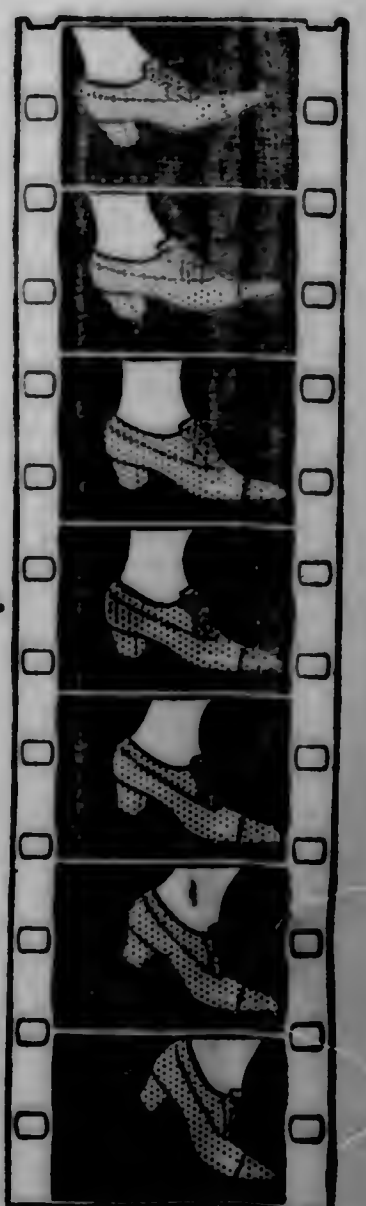

"Oh, for the thrill," said the other, "of wearing shoes that would continually give our feet the smart, trim look of daintiness that new, unworn shoes have."

How often have your new shoes, so shapely, so snug-fitting, lost their dainty lines all too soon? And why?

Asbestos.
The earliest use of asbestos was for spinning and weaving, to make incombustible thread and yarn, rope and cloth, and this has continued to be the most important use of asbestos ever since the days of the Greeks and Romans. Only the best grades can be used for this purpose, according to J. S. Diller of the United States geological survey, department of the interior. SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. R. S.

BELOIT REALLY IN ILLINOIS?

Old Records Recently Unearthed Seem to Show That the Wisconsin City Is Misplaced.

If some day you should see the address written "Chicago, Wis." or "Beloit, Ill." don't guffaw loudly and accuse someone of ignorance of geography. Urban A. Lavery, chief draftsman of the Illinois constitutional convention's committee on phraseology and style unearthed records which almost forced the Chicago politicians to go to Madison instead of Springfield. The records showed that the original southern boundary of Wisconsin was on a line with the southern end of Lake Michigan.

The government in dividing up the Northwest territory in 1787 so stipulated that one Nationalist Pope permitted congress to include the territory including Chicago in the enabling act making Illinois a state, reflecting Wisconsin of most in the matter of crime records.

As for Beloit, commonly supposed to be in Wisconsin, it was discovered that the Illinois general assembly in 1818 started out to fix the northern boundary of the state by a line of observation. Through an error Illinois granted all Wisconsin territory near the lake, and gave away some Illinois territory further west, leaving the business district of Beloit, which is really in Illinois under the old survey, in Wisconsin.

RANKS WITH NATION'S GREAT

Services of John Marshall of Virginia, Famous Jurist, Live in the Pages of History.

John Marshall was one of America's greatest jurists. He was the third chief justice and was an aristocrat by birth and breeding. He kept a retinue of colored servants.

John Spaulding, Marshall's body servant, wore long, fine stockings of brilliant colors and traveled around with his master. His appearance was so unique that once in Philadelphia, when he was walking alone with an air of constable importance, a mob gathered and threatened him with violence, as a black soldier was quite unusual in those parts. It is recorded. He was a faithful servant, however, and a bequest in Marshall's will showed the chief justice's appreciation.

Marshall was born in Fauquier county, Virginia, in 1755. He died July 6, 1835, at Philadelphia. He served in the Revolutionary war; was a member of the Virginia convention to ratify the Constitution in 1788; was a United States envoy to France, 1797-1800; was a member of congress from Virginia, 1799-1800; was secretary of state, 1800-1801, and was chief justice of the United States Supreme court from 1801 to 1835.

The Green Flash.
A correspondent of the English Mechanic and World of Science announces that he saw a green flash at the close of a sunset at sea. On Saturday, June 26, 1920, he writes, there was a clear sunset at Fleetwood over a sea horizon, and I was fortunate enough to see with the naked eye a faint green flash on the tip of the sinking sun. The sun's disk, before setting, was quite regular in outline, and the color was a delicate pink that gradually changed to a dull orange. Just as the last segment disappeared below the sea level the vanishing edge turned from bright yellow to emerald green. The evening was beautifully clear, with a gentle northerly wind.

THE BEAUTY OF A DAY.

This beauty born today,
What if it pass away?
One hour of perfect bliss,
One day of joy like this,
Then if eternal dark be come,
Unquestioned heart be dumb!

Sweet day too sweet to last,
What if it vanish past?
This is the good we wish,
More that it has been,
Beauty it has a gift,
Life still remains with it.

With it not short nor long,
Who can establish wrong?
Whether it come or go,
On footstep's smile or sigh,
Whether it stay or fly,
Brief, but so sweet, we cry.

Forward to meet, through strife,
Fidelity, though one day life,
Lifts us beyond the grave,
Endlessly through the years,
Until at last, through trial,
We meet in immortal joy.

Crowding Father Time.
It was an Irish member of parliament who somewhat worried with the long debate said: "If you leave this question to us for three years we will settle it tomorrow morning."

Valuable Salvage From War.
A use at last has been found for the vast quantities of barbed wire left on the battlefields of eastern Europe. Riga inventors have devised machinery for stamping nails out of the wire, and hope by this method to relieve the shortage of nails in the Balkan states. Riga has been the center of so much fighting throughout the war that most of the lakes, streams and roads about the city are thoroughly lined with barbed-wire entanglements and great numbers of full spools of wire are lying about. The expense of collecting wire for making nails is thus much lighter. Many of the piles at the port of Riga are stacked high with wire suitable for nailing.

His Obfuscation.
"That two and two make four," said Professor Date, "is as unimpossible as were the laws of the Indies and Mercurius. I mean, of course, the Merdes and Perstans, that is, the Perdes and Messtans—the or it is—"
"You doubtless intend to refer to the Merdes and Perstans," helpfully interrupted J. Fuller O'Connell.
"Exactly, thank you. Now, as two and two obviously make four—"
"The three don't. Arranged tandem, they make six," said J. Fuller O'Connell. "What was the rest of your dissertation?"
"Why, I said that I declare, I have forgotten it, please."

Immense "Visiting Books."
Among the archives of the city of Los Angeles are about one dozen volumes weighing a couple of hundred pounds each. They are filled with nothing but names. Los Angeles claims to have a greater number of visitors than any of the other cities of the state, and is collecting these volumes to prove the assertion. The books are filled with the names of visitors. Each book has 400 pages, and there are more than 1,000,000 names in each.

Camera Really Not to Blame.
There are some peculiar ways of taking photographs, but surely this is the most odd. A woman went into a shop and, declaring a camera she had bought was too good, demanded that her money be refunded. The prints she showed the clerk were of a large and distorted face of a girl. Puzzled, the clerk asked her how she took the photographs. She had held the camera in both hands, pointed upward, and taken snaps of her own face.

Silver in Sea Water.
Silver is contained in the sea in the proportion of one and three quarters grains to each cubic mile of water. There is one grain of silver in the water of each mile.

Parasit Had Put on Ring.
Digging his parsnips in his garden at Outremont, Montreal, a man discovered one root that during its growth found a ring in the soil which it forthwith put on. It had grown some eight or ten inches after that, and on either side of the ring bulged out considerably. In its efforts to grow uniformly it had forced the ring asunder on one side, but not enough to enable it to thicken to more than a fourth of the diameter of the parsnip above and below the ring.

Crows Went on Warpath.
While out duck hunting a man in Shoux City, Ia., shot a solitary crow. The wounded bird uttered cries for help and hundreds of crows came to its aid. They attacked the hunter and although he shot down numbers of the birds the others bent him about the head with wings and beaks. Eventually darkness fell and the hunter was able to escape to a willow patch. The crows being unable to find him returned to their roost.

Not His Time to Die.
Shot high into the air when an express train hit an automobile at a grade crossing near Sunbury, Pa., Richard Thomas seized an iron rod on the pilot of the locomotive as he descended, and when the train was brought to a stop, 300 feet further on, he was found perched on the cow-catcher, only slightly hurt. The car was entirely ruined.

Electrical Fires.
The number of cases of fire has not diminished, but it is still on the increase. It seems that at first, when electricity was first used, it was not properly cared for, and it was not until it was properly cared for that it was found to be safe.

The first case of fire was in 1889, when a fire broke out in a house in London. The fire was caused by a short circuit in the wiring, and it was not until it was properly cared for that it was found to be safe.

Had Studied Parsons' Methods.
Joseph Russell, alias Fiskett, was tried at Slough, England, on 34 charges of theft from clergymen. He would call at the house of the clergy at carefully chosen hours, find them out, ask permission to leave a note and while in their studios would steal their money. He said that the experience showed that a person always keeps money in the third drawer on the right-hand side of his desk.

Sensitive Instruments.
Instruments devised by Dr. W. W. Coblentz are so extraordinarily sensitive that they measure the heat of a candle in the focus of the great Mt. Wilson reflector at a distance of 62.1-10 miles. In his experiments Doctor Coblentz found that the pole star radiates just about enough heat to raise the temperature of a gram of water one degree centigrade in a million years.

Flood Had Buried Automobile.
Five years ago the Los Angeles river overflowed and washed away several houses and outbuildings. R. T. Itazelle, a farmer lost his automobile and suspected that someone had stolen it during the confusion caused by the flood. In digging a drain the car was found the other day buried six feet under clay, not far from his house. Mr. Itazelle says the machine is not greatly damaged.

MAKING MONEY IN POULTRY.

S. L. Royster, popular and progressive farmer of near Hickman, called at The Courier office this week, and in the course of his conversation reported what should be considered an almost phenomenal increase in his poultry business this year. Mr. Royster tells us that during the entire year 1929, the sum which accrued to him from chickens sold was $88.66, and from eggs, $291.47. During the year 1931 up to the present time—only three months—the chickens sold by Mr. Royster have netted him $302.25, and he has received from his eggs $87.30, which gives very substantial indications of a handsome increment being derived from the poultry business by Mr. Royster, who, as in other phases of the farm management, is wide-awake and up-to-date.

Peculiar London Street.

What is the most curious street name in London? It would be hard, perhaps, to find an odder one than Crooked Usage, in Chelsea, which in all probability recalls very ancient days when the plow was the commonest object in that region. It has been suggested that the straight strips of grass between the various holdings of land were known as usages, and that we owe the name to the circumstance that one of these cartways or usages was crooked. The history of London street names has endless fascination and interest.

AMERICAN WOMEN—A EULOGY.

American women are far and away the prettiest, youngest and smartest (clothes and brains) women on earth. They can also be the kindest, kindest and helpful, the hardest-worked—no, I mean the hardest working—and they have no rivals for charming enterprise.

They have a wonderful capacity for being excellent housekeepers, even though they may seem not to keep their houses more than a few minutes in the morning, before flying away, and an hour or two in the evening when they drop exhausted on a sofa. They are good mothers, good daughters and good sisters, and their husbands, who ought to know, proclaim to the whole world, to the earth and to the stars, to the believing and the unbelieving, that they are incomparable wives. I am ready to testify that they are invaluable friends. But somehow the American woman has faults from which French women are free, and the latter frequently criticize her to the disgust of the uncompromising American man.

In England and France, and generally in all old countries, there is a providential excess of women, and men choose. A Frenchman marries when he needs help; an American marries when he can afford it.—Ernest Dimnet, in Harper's Magazine.

MORE IN LIFE THAN WEALTH

Man Who Refuses to Let Money Dominate Him Calls Forth Eulogy From Rudyard Kipling.

Sooner or later you will see some man to whom the idea of wealth, as mere wealth, does not appeal, whom the methods of amassing wealth do not interest, and who will not accept money if you offer it to him at a certain price. At first you will be inclined to laugh at that man, and think that he is not smart in his ideas. I suggest you watch him closely, for he will presently demonstrate to you that money dominates everybody except the man who does not want money.

You may meet the man somewhere, but be sure that whenever or wherever you meet him, as soon as it comes to a direct issue between you, his little finger will be thicker than your loins. You will find that you have no weapon in your armory with which you can attack him. . . . If more wealth is necessary to you, for purposes not your own, use your left hand to acquire it, but keep your right hand for the proper work in life. If you employ both arms in that game, you will be in danger of stooping.—Rudyard Kipling.

RELIEF AHEAD FOR SOUTHERN FARMERS

Conditions Touching Cotton Interests to be Discussed With Southern Bankers.

The War Finance Corporation yesterday issued a call for a conference at Washington April 4 of Southern bankers to discuss methods by which the exportation of agricultural products may best be financed. Announcement of the conference followed discussion of the farmers' problems by the cabinet yesterday after which it was said definite plans for former relief probably soon would be put forward.

Announcement of the conference was confined to the bare statement of the call and date. In the light of the day's developments, however, it was regarded as the first step by the new administration looking to a solution of the farmers' difficulties.

Several other such meetings are planned. It was stated, Secretary Hoover expects soon to meet with representatives of the agricultural industry to talk over with them the problems which beset their industry. Leaders of several farmers' organizations also are preparing to carry their list of problems to the White House in the near future, probably before Congress goes far into the work of the extra session.

Officials of the finance corporation, desire, it was said, to explain to the southern bankers, on whose shoulders falls the burden of providing funds for the export of cotton and other products of the soil, just how far the federal agency can go in supplying the money they seek. In that the treasury's position with respect to exports to Germany also would be made clear.

The corporation already has approved a loan of $6,000,000 for the financing of shipments to states in Central Europe and Secretary Mellon has said there was no objection to loans of exports to Germany provided the finance corporation was given good security by the exporting houses.

There have been indications on several occasions that the corporation was ready to extend aid in shipping to Czechoslovakia and Poland, although a public statement to that effect never has been made. In these two countries exporters have reported great opportunities for the marketing of cotton and other exclusively southern products.

While there was no official expression it was apparently the programme of those officials having to do directly with the farming industry to spread conferences over several months, in which time representatives from the various sections of the country may be called to Washington to see what can be done for them. Finance corporation officials have said several times that the western and middle western farmers must be given consideration soon. It apparently was the consensus of opinion in the cabinet discussion, however, that the cotton interests should be the first to receive attention. The meetings which Mr. Hoover will call, it was said, will be entirely informal and will seek to develop a programme of co-operation within practical limits for the disposition of crops. Some officials are said to fear that unless the farmers can be given assurance of a friendliness on the part of the government in the marketing of their products, there will be a reduction of acreage of all crops. It was indicated that first-hand information obtained in conferences such as those proposed by Mr. Hoover might suggest new methods for domestic handling and exportation of all agricultural products.

Henry Pollock suffered a painful though not serious injury last Monday morning while cutting wood. The handle of the axe seems to have struck the wood in some way turning the sharp edge of the axe to his hand, digging a deep gash in it. It was his left hand which is fortunate with the mending season coming on and Henry running the neighborhood.
